Discussion Guide

Let's review

At the start of each discussion, review the conversation ground rules for returning and new members alike to set the stage for active participation by all. You may want to use a timer as you go around the room. And don't forget to decide who will take notes and post a discussion recap.

- Be open and curious: Everyone has a unique perspective, so be prepared to hear a different point of view. Listen first, and focus on the facts.
- Be respectful and engaged: Be sure that everyone has a chance to speak before adding a second comment or perspective. Encourage each other's participation.
- Be focused and concise: Keep the conversation centered on the issue and the brief.

The "Table-it" Rule: If the group has gone off-topic but the area is of interest, the group can table the conversation and save it for another time to be addressed in a different manner.

Let's begin

- Take five minutes to review the Executive Summary for this brief. Highlight the main point of each section and key statistics.
- Each member is invited to answer the following questions in a two-three minute reaction to the brief:
 - Introduce yourself, and share what "lens of care" did you wear when reviewing this brief (e.g. personal, professional, community, state, nation, global)?
 - What did you find most interesting or surprising from reading the brief? What matters?

Spread the word: facts to share during your discussion

- Election fraud has occurred in every state. There are 35 states with laws that request or require voters to have some form of identification with them when they vote at their polling place. In eight states, ballots are automatically mailed to eligible voters.
- State and nonstate actors employed "informational measures to distort the media landscape during elections in 24 countries in 2019."
- One cybersecurity company found over 6,000 local election officials were using email systems with limited protections from phishing attacks, and over 660 were using their personal email addresses for election-related business.

Let's discuss

Below are questions for the group to consider and discuss, or choose your own.

- Community: What measures for election security are taken in your community? Are there poll watchers? A voter ID requirement? Vote-by-mail options?
- Government: Given that elections are under the purview of states, what should be done at the local, state, or national level to protect elections?
- Business: What is the role of cybersecurity companies as cybersecurity becomes increasingly more important in elections?

Let's act

1. Take it local. Talk to your neighbors about how elections and election integrity affects your community. Consider hosting a conversation with local election officials or with individuals who have served as poll watchers.
2. Explore the impact of legislation related to elections and election integrity in your community. Search for laws in your state regarding voting requirements, and educate yourself on the candidates and issues that will be on your ballot. Investigate what your state's election security policies are, and steps to become a poll worker or poll watcher.
3. Investigate community programs in your state or municipality. You can contact your State or Local Election Office and see how your state and local election officials are chosen.
4. Research your elected representatives' positions on elections, and their vision for how to tackle election integrity challenges facing Americans and your community. You can find contact information for federal, state, and local government officials here. Your state or municipality's websites will also have information to contact leaders. Try looking at the drop-down menu for a Government tab.
5. Establish a relationship with your legislators. It's easy to establish a relationship with your legislators. Start by introducing yourself. You can also learn to write to your representatives or set up a meeting with a legislator on The Policy Circle website.
6. Consider writing a letter to the editor or an op-ed on your stance on elections and election integrity in your local paper. Learn how on The Policy Circle website.

Next Steps for Your Circle
